Livermore, Apperson in court

OAKLAND — The City of Livermore and Pleasanton rancher Bill Apperson will appear in Alameda County Superior Court today in two different lawsuits.

Livermore has filed suit against the Alameda County Board of Supervisors seeking to overturn that board's decision amending the county general plan to allow "Las Positas New Town". That petition will be heard at 2 p.m.

Bill Apperson will be in court at 9 a.m. defending his Diamond A Guest Ranch in a suit filed by the Sierra Club. The guest ranch would encompass 1,300 acres on Apperson Ridge near Sunol Wilderness Park.

Democrat Floyd Mori had taken nearly a two to one lead over his Republican opponent Guy Puccio with 47 out of 260 precincts reporting Tuesday

That lead is especially significant since there were virtually no returns yet from the Amador-Livermore Valley, believed to be his strongest area.

With 37 per cent of the votes tallied, later, Mori led Puccio measures in that district were Raymond Serafin, 18; Jack returns in at press time was the Livermore Valley School District. With six out of 50 precincts reporting, Ken Engelund had received 803,; Betty Carrell, 736, Dee Wilson, 588, and Ed Butts, who had previously withdrawn from the

'yes' votes and 684 'no' votes while Measure C had pulled 564 'yes' votes and 676 'no' votes. In the other area races, the returns available at press time were only absentee ballots.

The totals in the Pleasanton School District were: Betty The two school finance Nostrand, 35: Joe Schwab, 30:

Pearson, 14, and Alfred Thome,

In the Murray School District, the revenue limit increase measure was being defeated by the slight margin of 18 'no' votes to 15 'yes' votes. In the race for the three vacancies on that school board, Ann Henderson had received 21 votes, Robert Foster, 20, Peter Synder, 19, Judith Cuesta, 14, Eugene

Hinton, 9, and Edward Spies, 5. The 15th Assembly District race, which was sparked by several pieces of controversial campaign literature, ends after more than two months of grueling campaigning for Democrat Floyd Mori and Republican Guy Puccio. More than two-thirds of the 88,509 registered voters in the district are Democrats which gave Mori a distinct advantage from the start.

Area residents are invited to call The Times this morning -462 - 4160 - for complete election returns.

With a fulltime staff of just four people, Caporusso's office is reponsible for up to 200 part - time and seasonal aides, overseeing a budget that could spend as much as $237,000 just for program and maintenance in the upcoming fiscal year, but that will earn some $137,000 of that amount back again as "We have grown tremendously, but the opportunity for even greater expansion is still there, and so is the demand," Caporusso said. He recalled the rec department's role in launching a busy soccer program for local youngsters, helping organize little league baseball, and spawning several leagues in men's and women's softball, basketball and swimming. The future, Caporusso believes, will look to expanded activity in arts and crafts with a great deal more adult participation.

'We hope to have the new cultural arts center by late summer, and that will probably trigger a whole new round o public interest and participation," Caporusso told this reporter, recalling "how soccer grew from just an idea a few years ago to one of the Bay Area's busiest and best programs today.

For the immediate future, the recreation supervisor looks to expanded pre - school classes, using the remodeled Kottinger Building for that exclusive purpose. There should be more programs for the performing arts, expanded efforts to cater to senior citizens and teenagers. and more 'leisure time' athletics for adults. In many of these areas. Pleasanton is already renowned as a leader.

"Last year 14 percent of all the people enrolled in the Swim to Live program throughout Pleasanton," Caporusso reported.

Key to endless energy source sought at lab in Hydrogen

Hydrogen burns. The Zeppelin Hindenburg burned to a crisp in under a minute when a spark ignited its Hydrogen is also one of the most common elements on earth, and it is found most frequently combined with oxygen, in water.

So, it seems clear that hydrogen- if a way could be found to separate it from oxygen — has a potential as a cheap source of fuel in these energy-lacking days. With oceans to draw from, the source is nearly inexhaustible; only the technology is missing.

To remedy that, the Brookhaven National Laboratory has embarked on a massive research project into the possible use of hydrogen as a major source of energy, primarily in the place of natural gas, which must be mined.

But there are many sticky problems to be solved before hydrogen can be pumped into your home to cook dinner, not the least of which is that very flammability that destroyed the Hindenburg so completely.

But even using hydrogen on an industrial scale is difficult. Not only is it hard to extract from water and quite volatile, it is nearly impossible to store or transport because of its extremely small size as a

To help solve these problems of transportation and storage. Sandia Laboratories in Livermore has begun a research project to determine better and easier ways of containing hydrogen, if a cheap and efficient method of extracting it from water should be found.

Dr. Jim Swisher of Sandia, who has worked in Livermore since 1971, has just begun preliminary work into this subject, along with several other Sandia scientists, in hopes of coming up with a material that can be used to store hydrogen safely.

The problem is twofold. First, since hydrogen is so flammable, it is necessary to insure that it does not come in contact with air. If it does, an explosion will occur. Therefore the container must be strong. It must also be nearly impermeable, so that the with you."

small hydrogen atoms can not slip through the material. It should also be ductile, or flexible, so that a blow(that might occur in a collision) won't break the container and allow the gas to escape. However, though containers that are strong, ductile and fairly impermeable do exist, they are either very expensive or they are liable to become "brittle" when carrying hydrogen.

Though the term in scientific circles is "embrittlement", the word "brittle" is somewhat misleading. The hydrogen doesn't actually make the material easier to break in half, but it does make it less flexible and less able to stand up for long periods of time.

The reasons for this are not completely clear but the basic process is this. A metal, like steel, is made up of atoms arranged in a regular, crystalline pattern. The atoms are large, chemically speaking, and contain many protons and neutrons in their nucleus. Hydrogen has only one proton and one electron.

Consequently, it can slip into the latticework of the crystal it weakens the bonds between the other atoms in the crystal, even though it may not actually form a chemical compound with the metal.

When this happens, the metal becomes "brittle" and may breach easily, thus allowing the dangerous hydrogen to escape.

Some materials are not prey to this problem. Stainless steel, for example, or copper, do not become brittle, but they do get expensive. And when you are talking about a nationwide system of transporting and storing hydrogen, the capital investment for stainless steel containers can get pretty high.

So Swisher and his co workers are looking for new and cheaper materials to resist the effects of hydrogen while retaining the necessary strength and ductility. Ceramics have a tendency to shatter under a blow and which their use so metal remains the focal point of investigation.

However, since the process of embrittlement is not clearly understood, there is no real theoretical guide that will tell researchers where to look. 'We can't rely on theory to and indicated that much of what they are doing is still more or less a trial and error method. "We're trying to find ways to use inexpensive hardware" said the Livermore resident but he added that the research is really just beginning. However, a pilot power plant using hydrogen as a fuel has already been installed in New Jersey. "If we wanted to (build a commercial hydrogen power plant), we could do it in five or ten years" said Swisher but he looks for commercial applications no sooner than 20 years away. The attraction of hydrogen power is easily seen-the fuel source is abundant and no new technology need to be devised to produce power from it. However, such problems as containing it, extracting it and hauling it must be overcome before it can be used on a large healthy maturity is our main purpose," says Norm Sirnic of Via Granada, Livermore and this year's international president of Parents Without Partners. Formed 18 years ago and with chapters in every state, Canada, and Australia, the organization's program and activities are entirely the volunteer work of its members.

"Too many people think of us as merely a social group," Sirnic continues. "After a divorce or losing a partner where children are involved, the rehabilitation, so to speak, doesn't occur at a dance or other social function. Our discussion groups provide a means for members to talk out their problems. I didn't realize at first how bitter I was from my own divorce, but quickly made my accomodation when I discovered some of the unhappy experiences of others.'

PWP also offers community service seminars, called SOS programs, which feature noted speakers on such subjects as the merits of divorce versus staying together, how children are affected, the problem of loneliness, etc.

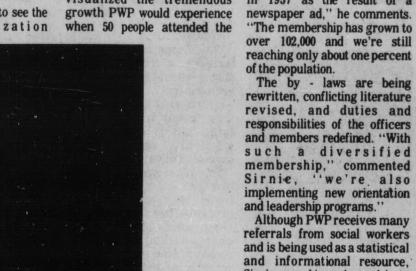

Although the average member stays in PWP about two years, Sirnic has been in for over 10, holding office the entire time. First as president of both Hayward and San Jose chapters, then treasurer, vice president and president at the regional level, he became the west coast director at the national level in 1970. ## Jrs. say thanks

Dear Members of the Pleasanton Community:

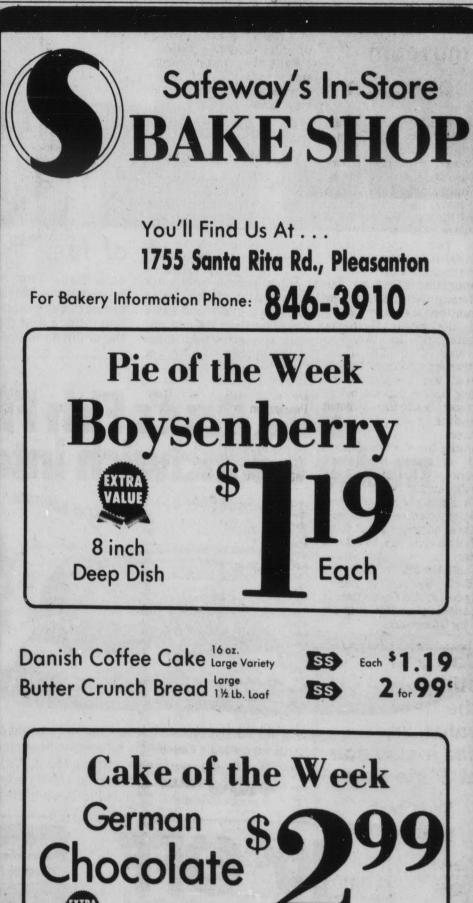

This year, as for the past four years, our 1975 Mardi Gras was a great success. The $19,525.29 raised was far beyond everyones wildest expectations and every member of the Junior Women's Club is still in a state of disbelief over the final outcome. However, the truth is, our club played only a minor part in the success, the biggest part being played by the entire Pleasanton Community. Yes, our girls worked very hard, many of them too hard, but to pick out any one person to say "thanks" would be impossible. The same goes to you wonderful people living out there in our town. How do we pinpoint you to show our appreciation? We can tell you it would not have been possible without our six fantastic candidates, their overgenerous sponsors, their diligent campaign coordinators and, of course, all their families, friends and neighbors who so generously supported their many fund raising activities in a day when money is tight. We can also tell you it would not have been possible without the great cooperation and financial support of the local business and professional sector of our community. And, then we go on to tell you we could not have done it without the great cooperation we received from the Press and their continual coverage of our projects starting with our Press Party announcing who the Mardi Gras Candidates were up to the climaxing Mardi Gras Ball announcing the 1975 King and Queen. Thus, it is obvious the great success has to be attributed to the combined efforts of the whole Pleasanton Community. We ALL worked together and your support is much ap-

Juniors want to be known as hard workers because we join our organization with the community in mind. But, when we live in a town that responds so well to our efforts our job becomes easier and more enjoyable. We hope you know how appreciative we are for your generosity and support of our 1975 Mardi Gras, as well as all our other projects throughout the year. Please accept our heartfelt gratitude and deep appreciation, as well as that of the Pleasanton Emergency Relief Fund, The Pleasanton Youth, Inc., and the Amador High School Auditorium Fund who are this years recipients of the Mardi Gras

1/4 Pork Loin Cut Into Chops

One thing to be said for 1975 is that we are to be spared that annual August lament from local school leaders who have had to approach the opening day of classes wondering "How kind will the state legislature be to us this fiscal year?" We can assume that this August's answer will be, "not very kind at all."

It would be the better part of financial wisdom to make that assumption right now. The State of California has fallen on hard times. Governor Brown, to his credit, has made it clear very early in his administration that he intends to pursue, and even accentuate, his predecessor's "cut, trim and squeeze" policy of recent years. Governor Reagan adopted that approach because it was good politics. Governor Brown will tighten the state's purse because he has no other choice.

Because public education is the major benefactor of state financing, it is the public schools which stand to experience the most severe financial trauma in the uncertain years ahead. Our school boards, our superintendents and even our parents would do well to lay their plans according-

We might in fact anticipate that "public schools will never be the same again." At least not in terms of the dollars available, and where we might spend them. The days of "classroom equality and tax equalization" are at hand. The pressure of the inner-city school system can no longer be ignored. Whether it be SB 90, Serrano - Priest or simply one disgruntled parent's appeal to the Supreme Court, we must be prepared to equalize our educational opportunities, regardless of local wealth or even community willingness. The result will be felt most keenly in the those wealthier population centers on the fringe of the troubled urban

In San Francisco, the depths of their financial despair was made known first in high school athletics. But in truth that city's school system has been broke for years, and the future is even dimmer. It remains to be seen what those new - found sources of cash will do about next year's athletic program, and the year after that; and if they start passing the hat to save music in the classrooms, the language lab and the school itself.

The Times Editorial and Feature Page

WINNER OF CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' AWARD FOR EDITORIAL EXCELLENCE

That same plight is somewhat more removed from the likes of a Livermore or a Pleasanton, but not that far. As the dollar income is reduced, or even levels off, we must make hard choices as to what program to cut, what book not to buy, which teacher not to hire. Here too, school athletics may have to suffer first, and the most. There is also that matter of the federal government's "Title Nine" order. requiring equalization of athletic programs for boys AND girls in all public schools. The ratio of 24 coaches for boys to seven for girls which now exists throughout this valley's high school system is due for dramatic change.

Since we know the crunch is coming, one way or another, it would be smart to start making our moves now. Boards of trustees should be telling it like it really is; superintendents should be preparing realistic budgets, and get off the "if only" kick of prior years. The teachers too should start planning for a smaller salary hike than they might otherwise expect, along with larger class loads and - God forbid — one or two less varsity coaches. We cannot avoid the great dollar squeeze of 1975, but we can at least be smart enough to know it's coming, and that public education is going to have bear the brunt of any cutback, just as the schools have historically enjoyed the largest slice of our tax dollar, when we had it to give.

> The reason the Castro Valley area candidates (for the South County Community College District board) were on the local ballot is explained after a lengthy discussion with Wilcken Fox, a very exceptional administrator in the County Schools of-

Fox says that trustee areas were setup when the college district was formed in 1961 . . . and voters throughout the district have voted for ALL trustee areas since Chabot's inception. School districts have the option of establishing trustee areas to insure balanced representation from throughout the community or leaving it as Pleasanton, Murray, Amador and Livermore do.

tion 1237 of the Education Code.

The thinking behind an entire district voting for all trustee areas is this. While the individual trustee may support issues pertinent to his own area, he is held responsible for matters involving the total district. This discourages a trustee from getting too provincial . . . if that in deed is Personally, when we got inside the ballot booth Tuesday, we had no idea who Lawrence Jarvis, Lee Roberts and Myron F. Tower were . . . or where Trustee Area No. 3 was. Nor do we really care.

Still, the winner of that election will serve on the board four years along with Mrs. Hudgins, Anne Duncan and Fred Duman, all incumbents who were not listed on the ballot because they were unopposed.

It is possible to have a write-in candidate, however.

One must have the ground rules down pat but it's possible.

The ballot exercise

The candidacy lists close 59 days before the election. The lists do not go to the printers at that time, however, so the last-minute candidate still has a chance.

A petition with 25 names can be submitted to the County Superintendent of Schools office between the 40th and 59th days before an election to insure a space on the ballot. If all the names are those of duly registered voters, the incumbent's name would then appear on the ballot along with a space for the write-in candidate.

The law stating that unopposed candidates will not appear on a ballot is relatively new, having gone into effect four years ago.

Trustee and council areas have been considered by districts and municipalities in the valley in the past but it has never gotten to the serious talk stage.

Yet, a subtle form of this does exist. An example of this is in the Amador district where an effort is made to see that not only Dublin, but Sunol, has representation on the board.

Bert Hersevoort is the only Dublin resident on the board and generally considered standard bearer for interests in that area. Charles Beazley carries the same appellation now for the Sunol area.

We cite these laws and practices not because they are necessarily good or bad, but so more members of the general public will be aware of the mechanism by which we vote for candidates in various areas. -By AL FISCHER come whether I work or not though it is pitifully small. That income will be larger when the time comes for me to retire but nowhere near enough to provide a man a living. Coupled with social security and my ability to freelance I would probably be all right. Without social security? Times might get tough, my friends.

There has been talk about eliminating social security of late. Sunday I heard two young women on television announce callously they regarded the payments as just one more tax. And heard Mike Wallace of Columbia Broadcasting System ask, almost indignantly, if the benefits might be cut rather than raise taxes.

I wonder if Mr. Wallace has checked out the figures on how many unwed mothers, who have contributed nothing to society except a slipshod set of morals, are receiving payments far in excess of social security. The old folks have been paying through the nose through the years, part of, if not all the bill.

Give me back the funds I have put into social security and things will be a little easier through whatever years I have left when I reach that not too distant age when I am turned out to pasture.

At the rate things are going I will pay about ten thousand dollars - principle and minimal interest - into the fund between now and then.

All of which upsets me, but not too much where I am concerned. But walking around that block in Danville with aching muscles and creaking bones I could not help wondering how folks feel whose equipment feels that way most of the time.

Some people whose entire income consists of a social security check. It seems to me we should be able to find the money to keep the program somewhere.

Perhaps by keeping that $300 million some folks want send in help to Vietnam at home.

When life within these suburban confines is no longer bearable. When the little woman stands alongside the busted dishwasher to declare - "Either you get me out of this house OR ELSE!" It is then, dear long - suffering husband, that you head for The City.

"A weekend in San Francisco will do wonders for us both," you declare with stout heart and bulging wallet. You will soon discover that on both counts you failed to

Our last stay at the St. Francis Hotel was by way of a "medium - priced room" that had all the charm of the Black Hole of Calcutta. This time, being in a somewhat expansive mood, we informed the hotel clerk..."and be sure that room has a view!" For the privilege of gazing down onto a small, plastic garden, or straining upward and westward (I would guess) to what was apparently "Pacific Ocean as seen through 28 high risers," we paid a sum that, in my batchelor days, would have brought two months room and board in Mrs. Armstrong's lovely white - frame

But Rule One of the Desperation Weekend is that you do NOT recall your bachelor days, or the costs which attained therein. Rule Two is that you avoid such conversation pieces as. "For what this dinner cost us I could have dined at the Emperor's Gardens for a week." Recollections of the sublime, low - cost life in the valley are not recommended, when one is doing the necessary weekend in The City.

After dispensing of some small but necessary business matters (NEVER waste a trip!) we made haste to the Marine's Memorial Theatre, to partake of "a delightful, adult comedy." Translation for those over 40: "IT'S FULL OF DIRTY WORDS." The title was disarming enough. "Father's Day" sounds about my speed. But only if I am divorced, homosexual and can laugh uproariously when the young lady on stage declares . . "and now I enjoy touching myself more than I ever enjoyed my husband."

The program declared that Universal Studios has purchased film rights to "Father's Day." If it comes to your neighborhood theater, I suggest you first send your 12th grade child as an advance test. If it shocks the kid, then it's a no - no for Mom and Dad. The trip to SF was also billed as a shopping tour for the little woman. "My closet is full of junk, nothing but junk," she declares. When the declaration is accompanied by the ripping of clothes from hangers, one gets the message. And so we tour the big stores in The City. All of them. Tried on everything between a size six and a ten. Every color but purple and black. ("I'm certainly in no mood for purple or black.")

When the 'our is completed, we tally up our total purchase: One man's shirt, striped blue, button-down collar; plus one blue tie with yellow dominoes. And for the little woman? "I just can't stand the styles this year. Knew that before we came in. But I just wanted you to see for yourself why I haven't been able to buy a thing for months." We shall have peace at 4672 for at least another three months, and until the walls close in, the clothes hangers come down, and there is a new demand for Woman's Liberation, housewife style.

No visit to San Francisco is complete without Mass 905 at Old St. Mary's. It hslps, of course, if you know what the Mass is all about. Few of us do, anymore, particularly if you pursue that particular worship in the suburbs. Participating in the Sacrifice of the Mass these days is akin to playing bingo at a rock concert. Something for everyone, and for no one. Old St. Mary's still does it the old way. An opportunity for quiet meditation. An organ solo just barely audible, designed to flatter the lord, rather than scare hell out of the sinners.

We were feeling so very self-satisfied, on that homeward journey, that the driver did not go into shock when the passenger suggested, "Now that we're out, why don't we stop and see that Towering Iferno everyone is talking about?" We were fortunate to discover "Inferno" at the Century 21 movie palace on Nimitz Freeway. Our good fortune declined from the moment I laid out a $10 bill for two tickets. The girl in the cage returned me $2.50 in change. "You've made a mistake," I exclaimed. "No," she responded after checking her addition, and my change, "YOU have made the mistake." She was so right, but it was too late to turn back.

The movie was good escapism. The kind of early -DeMille designed to get our minds off the Great Depression. But it was the popcorn that proved insurmountable. It was strewn everywhere. Usually mixed with a little Coke, or left- over ice cream bar. The show house looked like between scenes in shooting "The Battle of Britain." The odor was early Anzio.

We returned home totally relieved of our suburban frustrations, along with all our cash. It was perhaps the most costly non - shopping - tour in memory

Next time she feels in urgent need of "getting away from it all," I will suggest withdrawing to good old 4672, to the bedroom, no less. With a bottle of Concannon red and something from the Cheese Factory, too. Take the phone off the hook, draw the drapes, and read to each other from Dr. Kinsey's report on "How You Can Attain Happiness, over 50, and under $250." Even if nothing else happens, we can always spend some time in her closet, throwing out the rags of old, and preparing the way for the bright new promise of spring. I simply could endure another of those non-shopping shopping tours.

House full of Haglers

Mike Zampa

The Most Valuable Player in the 1975 Tournament of Champions should be Redwood High's 6-2 forward, Jack Hagler.

The selection has nothing to do with basketball ability, though you could argue his case there too.

Hagler's value will be felt by the TOC officials who must fret over attendance in these days of economic gloom. He will stock one corner of the Oakland Coliseum with branches of the family tree. If you thought The Godfather was the bottom line of family unity, go to the Coliseum Thursday and see Redwood play Amador Valley. Then turn to the persons on either side and ask, "You're a Hagler, aren't you?" The odds are good. There are fathers and uncles and cousins and sisters in the clan who are athletes. The immediate family alone contains enough sports nuts to fill a section. They'll be in the stands Thursday to watch young Jack's high school

It will be Redwood's fifth tournament appearance of the year. Now the Giants are good, but no team is that popular. Unless it has a draw like Hagler.

Redwood's opponent, Amador, is familiar with his capabilities. Jack poured in 22 points Saturday night when the Giants defeated the Dons, 41-39. He also appeared in the Amador Classic last December.

It was before that tournament that Jack's uncle Bob gave an indication of the family following. The elder Hagler, principal at Dublin High, jumped up at the Classic dinner and bellowed; "It will take all the tickets you've got just for my relatives.'

Jack is the second Hagler to play at Redwood. His older brother Rich was a part-time player for the Giants, and later at Marin Junior College. His sister Kathy is a freshman on Cal's women's track team.

Bill, the father, was a three-year All-Coast performer for Cal in the late '40s, and was a third-team All-American his senior year. At the same time, brother Bob was a guard at St. Mary's College. Their cousin Joe also played at Cal.

You get an idea of how Jack stumbled into the game of basketball. He was never pushed says uncle Bob, just urged to engage in some form of athletics.

'He's a real fine player, and a fine college prospect," says Bob, for years an outstanding coach at Amador High. "He moves well and he's a pure shooter."

Jack is leaning towards Stanford, says his uncle, despite the Hagler tradition at Cal. Basketball is part of the influence, but young Hagler wants to study engineering down on the Farm. He carries a 3.9 grade point average, and is president of Redwood's California Scholarship Federation chapter. In fact, almost all of his Giant teammates belong. Their cumulative grade average is an astounding 3.7. "I can't communicate with them," jokes Redwood coach Dick Hart.

Hagler is the team leader, averaging 14 points per game. "With the type of offense they play, that's a good average," says Bob. The Giants are a control team, much

Of the four tournaments Redwood has competed in, Jack Hagler has been selected to the all-tourney team four times. He has a chance to be the finest of all the basketball-playing Haglers, according to his uncle.

The honor now goes to Bill, who was a 6-4 pivotman for the Golden Bears. Hagler once scored 29 points against Stanford to break Andy Wolfe's single-game record at the University. He played against Bob and St. Mary's four times, winning three of those contests. "I used to get on him about being the baby of the family," says Bob who was a six-footer; "and that got him pretty excited."

It was just as unsettling for Mrs. Hagler, who had to root half of the time for each son. "One time she was listening to a radio recap after the game." Bob said. "The announcer pointed out that a Hagler played for each team, but that they weren't related. She got home and called the radio station to let em know.

Joe, the 6-9 cousin, played the lead role in one of Cal's most famous bits of basketball history. He held the ball in front of the Bear bench for eight and a half minutes in a game with NCAA champion USF. Those were the Dons of Bill Russell and K.C. Jones who won 60 consecutive games. The Bears trailed by just three in the second half when coach Pete Newell ordered the stall. Joe Hagler cradled the ball all that time in front of the hooting Cal fans, and a regional television audience. Finally the Bears broke out in an attempt to draw even. They missed shots however and the USF streak was held in tact.

Joe is now an attorney in Castro Valley. Bill is the San Francisco manager of New York Life Insurance. Only Bob failed to find honest work, ending up a basketball coach. "Bill's got a summer house in Lake Tahoe that's better than my house in Walnut Creek,"he laughs.

Undoubtedly there are hopes that Jack enters the main mainstream, just as a previous generation of Haglers has

The talent intelligence and motivation seem to all be there.

But there are three days this week at the Coliseum when none of that counts. Only his ability to shoot and rebound can aid Redwood High.

Hagler may again be the key player if the Giants are to defeat the Dons, and reach the Friday semi-finals in the TOC. Amador coach Skip Mohatt, a master of the defense, undoubtedly will devise a snare to stop him. Bob Hagler won't offer any advice though, even if he turned over the coaching reins to Mohatt back in the 1960's.

"I couldn't do that," Hagler says. "Blood is thicker than water.'

Coach hides biggest Elk

Elk Grove High basketball coach Dan Risley kicked off Tournament of Champions week in Oakland Monday with an astounding performance.

He stood before an audience of coaches, school officials and press, and rattled off a brief speech on his Thundering Herd without mentioning Bill Cartwright.

That's a neat camoflouge job. Nobody can simply overlook a 7-1 All American center averaging 38.5 points per game, and at least one article per week in the national media.

It's certain that everyone at the TOC dinner in Jack London Square's Elegant Farmer had Cartwright in mind.

He may be the dominant personality Thursday when the TOC begins its 29th year with four games at the Oakland

Elk Grove is drawing plenty of title consideration following its victory in the Sac-Joaquin

Section playoffs last weekend.
The Herd is massive with Cartwright and Elk Grove Cartwright in the middle at 7-1, flanked by Mitch Megna, 6-4, and Bill Job, 6-5.

The opposing Dragons are tiny in comparison. Center Mike Ward is the tallest at 6-4.

O'Dowd proved size is not the sole answer however, streaking to second place in the NCS play. The Dragons out-quicked taller Amador, but lost the championship to El Cerrito due to exhaustion. They'll have five days to catch a breath for Elk

Tech is a good bet to defend its TOC title, based on the return of two All-Americans, Wolfe Perry and Northern Shavers. Shavers, the center, is 6-6. He's called "Doc.

'That's because he takes care of business," says head coach Jim Brown. "He operates."

Both Shavers and Perry, a 6-3 guard, were All-TOC last year. Berkeley brings in the most dazzling TOC offense, averaging 80.6 points per game. The Yellow Jackets also have the most dazzling little man, 5-9 Gene Ransom. The senior guard averages 22.1 points per game, and is a two-time All-TOC performer. He is being recruited by Maryland.

Weather, Cowboys cool, Minutemen win

CONCORD — Concord High pitcher Dave Hipkins got some help from the rapidly falling temperatures to cool off the bats of the visiting Livermore Cowboy baseball team here yesterday.

Just as clouds began to obliterate the sun which had burned brightly at the outset of the contest, Hipkins entered in relief of starter Mitch Dean, still adjusting from basketball.

Hipkins no-hit the 'Pokes the rest of the way and struck out eight Cowboys, including a string of six in a row, to record a

the winning run. "You're never satisfied with an opening day loss," said Livermore coach Kevin Drake, " but I thought our defense was fairly good. Before the migration of Hipkins from shortstop, where he started, to pitcher, the Cowboys offense was fairly Kenny Watts finished the outburst, collecting Livermore's second and last RBI of the contest with a looping single to left that scored Palmer.

The Cowboys made things look pretty Valley Forge-like for the Minutemen in the fourth as they made it 5-0 and a note of near panic crept into the "chatter" of the Concord nine.

After two straight fly outs to secondbaseman Jardine made the inning appear fairly routine, Perry drew another base-on-balls. Bernacil then cracked his second one-bagger of the day and ended up on third, Perry scoring, when Concord third-sacker Dave Sherman completely missed the throw from the outfield. Moments later Bernacil had tallied on a passed ball by Minuteman catcher Doug Bernard

But Concord got three unearned runs in the bottom of the inning to get close and in the following inning to tie it.

The California Youth Soccer Association will stage State Cup championships for girls beginning with elimination contests March 15.

Teams from Dublin, Livermore and Pleasanton dominate the field of entries. The tournament was thrown open to all girls soccer teams in the under-10 through under-18 bracket.

Gloveless Gaels get groundup

Baseball coach Tom Mullican choked down a snicker and summed up Dublin High's baseball history for the past three seasons.

"If we can field, we can win." Yesterday the Gaels couldn't, and they didn't.

Bishop O'Dowd pinned an 8-5 opening day defeat on Dublin that ran against one of baseball's sacred dogmas. In the spring it's pitching that dictates the tempo. But there was no sanctuary on the mound yesterday. The two clubs combined for 18 base hits, 11 by Dublin.

The Gaels committed five errors however, leading to five unearned runs.

That helped make the debut of three Dublin pitchers, all fighting for the second spot in the rotation, an inauspicious one. Kurt Rohren and Larry Castello each worked two innings, and each gave up two runs. Robin Sherwood worked the middle three innings and was tagged for four runs.

Dublin's meal ticket, John Prieto, played the entire game at second base. He will start on the mound today when the Gaels face Lowell High in San Francisco. "He's strong." Mullican cooed. "He's not quite ready yet, but he's getting John contributed three hits and one run-batted-in against the Dragons. His first hit was a towering two-strike double to lead off the game.

Dave Anderson crunched a solo home run over the left field fence for Dublin in the seventh inning

Matt Billy had the other extra base hit, a right field double. Jim McCuaig and Sean Mays both drove in runs with singles. O'Dowd won the game with a three-run outburst in the last of the fifth inning. That snapped a

DO YOU HAVE a neat little 41 Long Colt Revolver and can't find ammo for it? Things are looking up, I betcha. The firm of L.M. Burney, Inc. in La Mesa, Texas 79331, P.O. Box 398, is making the 41 Long Colt ammo available. The price, to the best of my knowledge is $14.80 per box of 50. This is a real good way of getting fresh ammo, as well as getting a new batch of cases for reloading. WANT A CHANCE to holler about some proposed gun laws? Edward H. Levi of Chicago, President Ford's appointee as U.S. Attorney General, heading the Department of Justice, informed a congressional committee that he intends to push for federal prohibition of "Saturday Night Special" handguns. If you have any views on this subject, write to The President, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500.

HAVE YOU DEVOTEES of the handgun been looking for a good book on pistolsmithing? If so, you might do well by ordering a good one from Brownell's, Inc. of Route 2, Box 1, Montezuma, Iowa 50171. "In order to meet increasing demands for competent gun repairmen, we have developed a new nine-month Certificate Gun Repair Program which starts each fall with the fall quarter. This concentrated training program is oriented specifically toward the repair and maintenance of modern firearms. The repair program operates separate from, but in parallel to, the existing Gunsmithing Program and a certificate in Firearm Repair Technology will be awarded upon successful completion."

Red says the program is going very well with tremendous response, and the classes which go from September through June fill up early. He stated this is not a basic gunsmithing short course, but a very intensive gun repair Mats win, and maintenance program on a wide variety of modern and maintenance program on a wide variety of modern

ACTOR LORNE GREENE, who starred in the TV show "Bonanza" for almost 14 years and is now the hostnarrator of a televised wildlife show, has been named honorary chairman of National Wildlife Week March 16-22.

'We Care About Wildlife Habitat' will be the theme for the 38th annual observance of the week, first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938 and sponsored ever since by the National Wildlife Federation.

More than seven million students, teachers and members of conservation organizations will participate in this month's national observance, according to Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the NWF.

Greene was selected. Kimball said, because he has "demonstrated a deep, genuine interest in the problems of wildlife survival." Greene's current show, "Last of the Wild," has been rated by naturalists as one of the more educational of current TV wildlife series offerings.

The dogs, which roam singly or in packs, have been killing large numbers of lambs in several counties and are also responsible for the loss of many fawns and other wild

'This is the season when the dogs seem to run the most." said Game Warden Bruce Cochran whose district is in Contra Costa County. "The nights are cool and the ground is soft, and any dog that can get out at night is bound to find something he can chase. We often see evidence of this destruction — the corpse of a fawn or pheasant or the destroyed nest of a duck."

No one knows the extent of the damage to wildlife. Warden Charlie Harris in Santa Clara County thinks dogs kill a great number of the fawns born in his district. Most DFG personnel agree that the dog toll has a significant depressing effect upon the deer population in many areas.

Many ranchers are shooting stray dogs on sight. Game wardens are authorized by law to do so if they see a dog harassing a wild animal. But the natural inclination of most wardens is not to kill, but to try to capture the dog and return him to his owner, a difficult and time-consuming operation.

Dog owners are urged to control their pets. "Most of these dogs are not homeless strays," says Cochran. "They are somebody's valued pets and they are back on the doorstep the next morning wagging their tails. Most owners don't even know their dog has been out all night running sheep or wildlife."

It is not just large dogs that do the damage either, a DFG spokesman said. Smaller dogs often run deer into fences and onto highways. When running in packs, even small dogs can kill fawns and other wildlife."

So if you value your dogs, and wildlife, you are urged to keep your pet dog at home.

> Bob Stoddard, who started the varsity contest, got off to a strong start as he gave up just four hits while striking out nine before giving way to thirdbaseman Steve Stone. Stone notched three K's during his stint on the hill.

Granada scored first on Jay Strickland's 320 foot homer over the left field fence with none out in the second inning.

One inning later the Mats got another single run as Ken Staton walked and eventually scored on a single by Stone. San Leandro tied the game in the sixth. Rightfielder Dave Sayegh walked and later scored on Dave Mendez' double. Mark Rocha then scored Mendez with a single.

In the extra frame, Granada's Dave Spencer doubled, Dave O'Brien singled and, after Stone whiffed, Bill Jensen drew a base-on-balls. Spencer found his way across the plate when the ball got away from SL catcher Rick Bodas.

Strickland rounded out his fine afternoon at the plate by providing an insurance run as he singled in O'Brien.

NEW LOW PRICES ON THESE NEW CHEVROLET MODELS.

$305

LOWER PRICE ON THE NEW MONZA "S" HATCHBACK COUPE"

Look at the car. It looks much the same. Yet look at the sticker and you'll find we've trimmed over $300 off the Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price of our sporty little Monza 2+2, Motor Trend's "Car of the Year", to help put our new Monza "S" Hatchback Coupe within reach of more people. We did it by taking off some equipment items, and giving you the option of ordering them separately. Your dealer can give you the details.

*Based on comparison of Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Prices between the Monza 2+2 and the Monza "S". Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price of the new Monza "S" is $3648.

Now, $599 less than the newest compact from Chevy's nearest sales competitor.** **Based on comparison of Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices.

$106 LOWER PRICE ON THE NEW NOVA "S" COUPE*

Now Nova is even more affordable. What we did was switch tires on this new "S" model, putting on a set of tough bias belteds in place of the standard radials and passing the sizeable savings along to you. Of course if you want radials, you can order them. If you don't, enjoy your savings—and your Nova. It's a solid car, with a well-established reputation. Why pay $599** more for a fancy newcomer that's about the same size, when Nova (even without radials) offers so much—for so much less?

*Based on comparison of Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Prices between Nova Coupe and the new Nova "S" Coupe. Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price of the new Nova "S" is $3098.60.
